HUNTINGDON, PA.

ANSWER TO ——.

You ask me why I do not wed,
Why I so long have tarried;
When there's so many to be had,
Why do I not get married.

Though perhaps I'm old enough to wed,
I'm young enough to tarry
Until my heart a partner choose,
I'll surely never marry.

True there were some I might have wed,
Who cooly were rejected;
For I'd rather live a lone old maid,
Than as a wife—neglected.

And some perhaps would have loved me well,
I own I did respect them,
But as I had no love to give,
'Twere right I should reject them.

Some wed with those they do not love,
To escape a single life,
But less I dread an old maid's doom
Than the fate of an unloved wife.

An unloved and unloving wife—
Oh! what a life of sorrow;
For she who bears that dread name
Can know no bright to-morrow.

Her days pass by in endless strife,
She can know pleasure never;
Oh! I prefer to such a life,
A single lot forever.

Learn to Say No.

Ah! what wonders this little word has performed. There is not a word of greater import in the whole English language than is this little word of two letters. It we wish to have our lives characterized with firmness and decision we must learn to say No. This brings to mind a remark I once heard an over indulgent mother make in regard to an only son. A friend was commending her on her son's talents and genius. "I admit all you have said is true," remarked the fond mother, "but there is one sad defect in my boy's moral character—he has never learned to say No." No, Frank Lee had never learned to say no. His parents were wealthy, and resided in one of our large inland towns; were pleasure seekers, and sought in every social circle to win the approbation of the frivolous and gay; instead of leading in the gay routine of fashionable life, with no higher aim than to pass the time, they would materially improve the society in which they mingle.

There must be no wavering between yes and no when duty stands facing you and speaks as plainly as words and loudly bids you obey the inward voice of conscience. If our great men who have made their lives conspicuous by noble acts and heroic deeds had not learned to say no they never would have been able to fill the positions they now occupy.

But let us now return to Frank Lee. After an absence of several years, let us glance at his home. Do we find Frank the same gay and happy boy of former days. It needs but a glance to tell that he has learned to taste the sparkling wine. Ah! his appearance is much changed from what it was in former days. When he returns home at night does he meet a loving mother's smile? Ah! no, that mother who spoke of her son's weak point and inability to say no, has long since slept beneath the sod of the churchyard.—Oh! the wine cup, the bright, sparkling wine cup, what misery thou hast caused to thousands of unguarded persons, who at first just pressed the wine cup to their lips because it was thought manly to do so. In a community there are always persons who can command an influence over others and very often that tendency may be for evil; when such is the case there are often many persons ruined by such an influence. Had they had resolution enough to say no, they might have avoided the sad tendency which such an effect produces. Then let me urge upon you, my young friends, learn to say no. If a young friend tries to induce you to accompany him to the drinking saloon or any other place of amusement that your conscience tells you is wrong, say No, promptly. Do not waver between right and wrong. There is a beautiful text in the Bible which says, thou shalt say no; then think of this text and say no when urged to yield to temptation.

A SERVICEABLE COAT.—Many years since an old German citizen of Pendleton county, when about to lead his fair "frau" to the hymenial altar, purchased a broad cloth coat in which he was married. His wife presented him with many children, among whom were eight sons every one of whom were married in the same coat in which their father married their mother. The youngest of the eight sons had seven sons, every one of whom were married in the same wedding coat; and after the youngest son of the original owner of the coat, had led his blushing bride to the altar in his venerable grandfather's fashionable wedding coat, he sold it for the sum of ten dollars.—Staunton Spectator.

Chapter on Wimmin & the Wurld.

MISTER EDITUR:—Inn ackordance with yure kall fur infirmashun frum the kountrey allowe me, yure umbel servent, to submitt the follerin frum experense.

Wimmin air never satisfide with enuff, or with wot tha hev ana mower then men; tha air no suner gratifide in wun wish then anuther pops inter thare purty heds to teze an torment. The more tha git, the more tha must hev; a nu gown begets a'desier fur a nu bonet; and these towgethur forme the foundashun fur a host of cekpensiv ficksins an fulish flippergigs. Wen tha wunce git started, an attempt to halt them is like holdin a kat by the tale, the more we hold the more tha squaul. Their morbid apetite is a constitooshunal disese, inhairited frum the "muther uv awl livin," who ate herself owt of hum, happyness an Eden, inter a glumy wilderness uv wo, waunt an retchidness and wile kats. Wot a pity it wuz that Mrs. Eve kouldn't hev bin satisfide with the pure an legitemate pleasures of pairodice without trespassin on the little that wuz furbiden!—She had evry thing nessary to make her happi—inkludin a husband, an no trousers to patch. All that mortal in her sitiashun resonablee desier wuz hers tu enjoi. Natur supplide all her nessary wants an furnished ekstras in supurabundence. She hed nuthing to du but geather flours, twine reaths, weve garlans, an form luv-nots to plez her gude an nobel spowse. She hed no hous to kepe in order, for the blew rufed ski wuz their unly an suffishent shelter, wence necthur rane, hale, sno nor slete desended; nur wur the wins of hevin allowd to handel her delikate person ruffly. Havin no moles to prepair, Adam couldn't find fault with her cookin, nor skold about dinner not bein redy in seson, no beds to make in the mornin, no dishes to wash, no room to swepe, and no stockins to darn—how could she, my readers, be otherwise than happi? For her a perpetyual spring raned in Eden, breathin its bamy odors thruowt the whole dough-main; for her the roze blossomd thornless, merrie burds sung their melodeus madrigals in every grove, an nature semed to take particklar panes to hev everything as it should be—done up brown. Sorro was then unborn, karo hadn't cum inter the wurld, an truble never entered the gaits of pairodice. Velvet footed time, treding upon mossy banks and beds of vilets, trotted by with a noiseles step, the golden wingd minuits flitted past like butterflies inn June, an the dancin howers went lawfing by as merrilee as a lot of brite ide lasses "jist let luse frum skule." Yet for all these, discontent dwelt in the garden, growing duly fat by sillee indulgence.

My readers, to please the palate of Mrs. Eve thare gru spontaneusly, in Eden, pares, plums, mellins, grapes, figs, cherrys, dates, and all kines of delishus berrys; of all these she partuk freely, an without fear of thare dooing dammage either to her physical stumack or moral maw. In thare midst stude the tre of nollege, an frum its beuden bows hung the forbidden apels in enticin abundance. She looked upon them an saw tha were fare to behold, but never thought of tasting em till she saw ritten upon the trunk of the tree "TUCH NOT, TASTE NOT." At that moment she began to gro uneasy an hanker after the apels. Tha looked more melow an lusshus than ever, an hev a bite at them she must, let the konsequense be wot it mite. So she got the devel to giv her a boost inter the tree, an up she went like a posum after persimins. After etin her full, she selected half a dozen of the biggest an best and trudged off to Adam, with a request that he would alsow ete and pass his opinin on the pipins, warupon he pronounsed them good, first rait, an immedately made way with the lot. Sune thay both begun to feel bad awl over. Tha felt as thow tha had been doing wot tha ort not tu have dun.—Tha saw that tha were naked and wer for the first time ashamed of it. Wether it was the man or the womin that first made the discoveray I have no menes of asertaning. As a beginning of thare punishment tha were obliged to go to work. So tha turned tailors and sowed fig leaves together to make aperns. Eden sune lost all its luvlyness; the flours faded, the birdies quit singing, the skys lowered and glume encumpaced the unhappee pare. Tha wandred arm in arm tu and frow in serch of pece, jist like the rebel comishunyers wandered across our lines in frunt of Petersburg last winter in serch of the same article, and like the comishunyers tha found nothin but a flamin sord, fast drivin them frum parodice an happiness inter a wurld of toil, truble, anckziety, sin and sorroh, for them tu peepul with a wicked and sickly projiny, and tha hev dun it.

Isn't it an awful pity that ower long dead an lamented proginitress shud hev ruined awl mankind fur a paultry apel? Wot evil she hes entaled upon us by her fulishness! Insted of enjoin a hevin upon earth as mite otherwise hev bin the case, here we air, struglin about in the midst of death, disese, krime, wickednes of all kines, pane, discontent, old batchelers, an other evils, vice, greaf, melancoly, old mades, and sich like miseries. Here we air, wurthless dregs of mortality, the last runings of the keg of wholiness, and growin more vily evry day. Here we air, made up of the fay ends, clippins an refews of such moral stuff as used to be put into people in dais of yoar. Here we air, suckin happiness through a guse quill, an misery thru an eve-spout, powkin over a barril of chawf for a cuple granes of weat, fishin hawf a day with a wet jackit an a hungry belly for a mess of trowt, an comin to hum with a solitary cat fish, working like a win mill for the public good an then wislin for reward, seeking glory and findin it at the dore of the tume. O! how I morn the fall of our first pairients! Wen tha fell, what a fall was thare! It was like an anjil fallin out of hevin into a fish pond.

It is trne thare air a few particles of plesur to be picked up in our terrestral wanderins, but tha air of leetle consequence. Sorreh sumtimes lies down to slepe amid the flours of joi; but she is sune wakend by the jarrin footsteps of aflicshun. Altogether the wurld is in a sad picle, but I hope an trust that the time will eventynally come wen it will wear off a good porshun of its acumulated rust, an exhibit sumthing of its riginal briteness an pureity.

Frum yure disconsulate
PHINEGAN.

MORE ABOUT THE DRAFT.—Dr. Rothrock, near the conclusion of his report with respect to the drafts in this district, writes as follows concerning the tricks of the lads who would "go for a sojer:"

"In examination of substitutes and volunteers, we had more trouble with boys, not more than 14 or 15 years of age, than any class of men. They were frequently brought from a distance—always claiming to be 18 years of age. They were so well drilled by the brokers having them in charge, that they would force a very full inspiration, strut about as erect as old soldiers, and go through every process of examination with as much activity as a set of lofty tumblers. They were taught before coming here that in this case there was no wrong in pretending to be several years older than they really were. We rejected many boys who were over the minimum standard, because they were undeveloped in bone and muscle, and evidently not over 15 years old. No reliance could be placed on the word of themselves or those in charge of them as to their age. They presented every variety, from the stripling boy of 14, to that of full developed puberty.

"Again, old men over 50 years of age, came with their hair dyed, and in some cases with artificial teeth inserted, claiming to be aliens and under 45 years of age. These frauds were so easily detected, that I believe we were not in any instance imposed on by this class

"Of the men examined, the number of Pennsylvanians largely preponderated over all others combined, and in my opinion, they presented the greatest physical aptitude for military service. A very large proportion of Pennsylvanians furnished by this district certainly cannot be excelled in symmetry of form, physical endurance and intellectual development by any equal number selected from any nationality. This is accounted for by the habits of industry, sobriety and frugality, with the fostering care of our common schools, for which Pennsylvania in general, and this district in particular, are proverbial."

ENGLISH IGNORANCE OF AMERICA.—Those who took the pains to peruse the speeches recently made by Sir Morton Peto and others of the English capitalists' party, and who observed the simple wonder expressed by them every where at everything they saw, can appreciate the profound ignorance of even the most intelligent classes in England concerning everything in America. Those gentlemen had had large amounts of their capital invested in this country for years, had had it invested in the very way which, of all others, was most likely to make them familiar with our material characteristics and development and, moreover, had been friendly to us during the war, and, therefore, all the more likely to be well informed about us; and yet Christopher Columbus was not more astonished by what he saw upon the continent of America in 1492 than Sir Morton Peto and party were at what they saw in 1865.

Wanted--A New Method of Doing Honor to Distinguished Men.

The Boston Advertiser thinks that any body who will invent for use in this country a new method of doing honor to distinguished men, performs an act of humanity towards a deserving but suffering class, and will do something to save the people of the United States from making themselves ridiculous before the world. At present the methods in use appear to be three. The first of these is to set the man whom we delight to honor in some public place where all comers may shake his hand. Now, handshaking, beyond the half dozen men whom the recipient of honors is glad to see, is an utterly insane process; beyond the first five minutes it becomes a laborious process, and after the first fifteen minutes it is torture under which the strongest constitutions break down and before which the stoutest hearts quail. Moreover any man is supposed to have a reasonable choice as to the sort of people with whom he shall be brought in contact. Few of us think that even the Roman was any too fastidious, who when before meeting his fellow citizens as a candidate, "bid them wash their faces and keep their teeth clean." But it is literally the "great unwashed" whom we thrust upon any great man when we set him up in Faneuil Hall or in the City Hall of New York, to try his endurance by the pump handle process.

The second method is to have a serenade by appointment with a brass band and an enthusiastic street mob, and vociferous cries of 'speech, speech,' and unlimited champagne afterwards. Now a serenade in the stilly night by Romeo with his flute, listened to by Juliet at her window, with no bystanders or dogs upon the lawn, is one thing; but this entertainment under gas light, with all the crowd and confusion and tumult of a city fire, is quite another thing, and not to be recognized from its name. To the object of the demonstration this speech making on the balcony, with the certainty of being reported in the morning papers, is severe penance; while the scene in the supper room afterwards is apt to be simply disgusting.

And finally, when we would do the thing with especial elaboration, the approved method is to have what is called with no appropriateness a "reception," such as was extended to Gen. Grant in New York the other night. Policemen with their clubs are usually the masters of ceremonies on such occasions; detectives in plain clothes observe the movements of the spoons and forks; those who get out of the crush with their clothes whole upon their backs esteem themselves happy, and those who cannot get in are found to be happiest of all, the distinguished guest undergoes the extremity of compression and hustling in addition to the handshaking process; every element of social enjoyment is squeezed out of the affair; and the result of it is that local dignitaries see themselves announced in the newspapers as the committee and managers and guests of an entertainment, about which everybody talks for a day and at which the better part of the community laugh with contempt.

Absolutely it is to these methods that the people of this nation are reduced, when they would testify in a public manner their regard for a man whose name excites in every breast sentiments of admiration, respect and gratitude. So clumsy are their efforts to articulate their feelings, that it is only by subjecting him to the maximum of personal annoyance in the given time, that General Grant or any hero can be duly assured that his countrymen honor his character and recognize his deeds. Is not American ingenuity adequate to the task of contriving some other sort of public demonstration, which shall save us from the discredit and ridicule which so properly attends the essential and stereotyped vulgarity of the methods now in vogue?

☞The editor of the New Castle (Pa.) Courant being absent, the "devil" assumes charge, and thus apostrophizes:

"The improvement in the general appearance of this number of the Courant is owing to the absence of the editor.

"N. B.—When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for us to forsake, for a brief period, the 'ink keg' and 'roller,' and take our place in the chair, editorially, a due respect for our vanity makes it incumbent on us to give the following notice, to wit: as follows: During this week all editorial favors, such as wedding cake, boquets, cigars, specimen whisky and other summer drinks, turkeys, and all the et ceteras that are part of the emoluments of our new position, should be sent to the "DEVIL."

That young man is on his way to fame, and will undoubtedly, in time, be one of the most shining lights of the profession.

[From Philadelphia Public Ledger.]

Lafayette College Endowment.

Why is it that the State Colleges do not seem to grow so fast into public confidence, or in the number of students, or in the amount of donations and endowments contributed for their support, as those schools under the control of some religious denomination? There is Lafayette College in this State, which is not yet a full generation old, and which was, we believe, first started in this city by Rev. Dr. George Junkin, and then removed to Easton as a Manual Labor School, is now, in addition to Princeton, becoming a most important and flourishing Presbyterian College. The present President, Dr. Cattell, though quite young, is full of energy, and wonderfully successful. Some time ago we alluded to the fact that Mr. Pardee, of Hazelton, a gentleman of great wealth, had contributed $20,000 to this institution. Other gentlemen joined, on condition that the subscription should reach $100,000. About $40,000 of this sum is still wanting, and Mr. Pardee has now come forward and tendered another $100,000 to found a Scientific School, provided that the $40,000 is made up. In addition to this another gentleman has given $10,000 to erect a building for the pursuit of Natural Science. Rev. Dr. Green of Princeton, delivered the address at the laying of the corner stone of this building—a very able address indeed, extracts from which we laid before our readers a week or two ago Its faculity is an able one, the venerable Professor of Natural Sciences especially having a high reputation, both at home and abroad. He has stuck to the institution in dark hours, when its prosperity seemed almost hopeless, and but $400 a year each was all that could be given to the professors. Now he lives, in his old age, to witness a very great change in its condition and prospects, and his own department especially endowed and contributed to in a manner that a few years ago would have been unheard of even at Harvard or Yale.

We feel sure that the facts of the case need but to be mentioned, especially to the highly respectable and wealthy denomination under the care of whose Synod this College is placed—the Synod of Philadelphia—to secure the immediate raising of the sum that alone is wanting, about $40,000, to secure the magnificent endowment now proposed by one of the broadest minds and noblest hearted gentlemen of our State—one who, though not himself educated in a college, or a member of the particular denomination to which this college belongs, has thus invested a portion of his wealth, from a deep respect for the wise and safe plans on which it is founded, a sense of its value to the State, and a high personal esteem for its excellent, energetic and truly pious President. If this plan is carried through, as no doubt it will be, that institution will have a property in buildings, grounds, professors' houses, college buildings and endowments of $250,000, without a cent of debt.

But our reason for calling attention to this act of munificence is further to inquire why something similar should not be carried out in regard to the University of our own State, located in our own city? It is cheering to see how much of the accumulating wealth of our citizens is being bestowed on the endowment of seats of learning. We spoke the other day of the munificent gift of half a million of dollars and an estate of sixty acres of land, given by Hon. Asa Packer, to found the "Lehigh University," and of $100,000 raised for the "University" of Lewisburg. Why should not some of those gentlemen of wealth whose sons have been, and are being, educated in the University in our own city, donate special funds to found professorships and schools in connection with it, that shall make it, especially in its course for under graduates, a perfect model, worthy the chief city of our magnificent State. Will not the alumni and trustees take this matter up, so that parents and families may be brought here, and not forced to live elsewhere, who desire to give their sons the most perfect education the country can afford, under their own eye.

FLOWERS IN THE WINDOW.—There is nothing more attractive to the eye of the outsiders than the plants and flowers in the windows of houses during the season when garden culture is out of the question. Here every one, without regard to circumstances, may have a miniature greenhouse, with all its luxuries and a few of its inconveniences. The expense is not worth mentioning, and the labor is a pleasure to all who love these most loveable beauties of Nature. In many of the public schools of New England, the female teachers and larger scholars cultivate many flowers through the year, either in doors or out.

Letter from Mrs. Lincoln.

Mr. Carpenter, the artist, who has been publishing in the Independent his personal recollections of President Lincoln, gives, in his last contribution the following extract of a letter from Mrs. Lincoln:

"Truly," writes Mrs. Lincoln, "no sorrow has been like unto mine. I am as broken-hearted over this overwhelming affliction as when the terrible tragedy first occurred, and, of course, realize it far more. I have lost the most loving and devoted of husbands, and my dear boys the best father that sons were ever blessed with. 'Until God's love shall place me by his side again,' I shall know no peace, or alleviation of my grief. Knowing him as you did, I am sure you can pardon and appreciate a wife's great sorrow over so untimely a loss!

* * * * * *

"How I wish you could have been with my dear husband the last three weeks of his life. Having a realizing sense that the unnatural rebellion was near its close, and being most of the time away from Washington, where he had passed through such conflicts of mind during the last four years—feeling so encouraged, he freely gave vent to his cheerfulness. Down the Potomac, he was almost boyish in his mirth, and reminded me of his original nature, as I remembered him in our own home, free from care, surrounded by those he loved.

"That terrible Friday, I never saw him so supremely cheerful. At three o'clock he drove out with me in the open carriage. In starting, I asked him if any one should accompany us? He immediately replied; 'No I prefer to ride by ourselves today.' During the drive he was so gay that I said to him, laughingly: 'Dear husband, you almost startle me by your great cheerfulness.' He replied: 'And well I may feel so, Mary, for I consider this day the war has come to a close,' and then added, 'We must both be more cheerful in the future. Between the war, and the loss of our darling Willie we have been very miserable.' Every word he then uttered is deeply engraved on my poor broken heart. In the evening his mind was fixed upon having some relaxation. * * * I firmly beleive that if he had remained in the White House, on that night of darkness when the fiends prevailed, he would have been horribly cut to pieces. Those fiends had too long contemplated this inhuman murder to have allowed him to escape."

LABOR SAVING—LABOR MAKING.—Labor saving implements were once thought to be destructive to the interests of the working man, just in proportion as they saved the drudgery of labor. This seems reasonable at first, but a little thought will correct the error. How then do the farm laborers, thrown out of work by the introduction of improved implements, ultimately find work? Plainly by the increased amount of tillage which horse power, machinery and tools make possible in the country. In a section where all the soil is under cultivation of some kind, it will lead to more thorough system of farming. In the case of our own country, it leads to the faster extension of civilization westward, the rapid subjugation of wild lands, and the better cultivation of that already under the plow. For instance, the Western grain grower, who now devotes seventy-five to one hundred and fifty acres to corn and other grain crops, to the meager facilities of thirty years ago, could not have managed one-fourth that part amount in a similar manner. This increase of agriculture not only keeps good the original number of farm laborers, but creates a new demand for laborers in every other field of industry. More ships and railroads are required for transportation, more manufacturing establishments, more mechanics to construct these, and men to manage them, more miners, machinists, etc. In fact, the whole body politic thus receives vital refreshment from every really labor-saving invention. This is a forcible illustration of the fact that whatever fairly advances the interests of one class, becomes a benefit to all the classes in the community.

AN ENGLISH SHERMAN'S RAID.—A British force is about to invade Bootan, and has been put in light marching order for this expedition, which, after all is but a short one compared with Sherman's great march. Sherman's veterans will read with interest of the preparations.

"The force is to consist of two wings of British infantry, six regiments of native infantry, one thousand drilled coolies, two batteries of artillery and two companies of sappers and miners, or about nine thousand men in all. A great effort is being made to limit the number of camp-followers, only one servant being allowed to each officer, but the number of bullocks, mules and yaboos required to carry ambulances, water, forage, ammunition and provisions for fifteen days will be enormous, and every pair of animals will require one man. Tents are forbidden, and the whole force is to enter Bootan as far as an Indian force can, stripped for action. Extra blankets will be supplied to the men, but that seems to be all the precaution taken against the cold, which, by December, will be bitter on the hills."

Hugh Lindsay, Associate Editor.

MEMORABLE as the late Message is for the almost unanimous concurrence with which it was received by the country, it contains, nevertheless, a severe rebuke to a large class of our citizens. After recounting the manner in which his duties had devolved upon him, the President says: "To fulfil my trust I need the support and confidence of all who are associated with me in the various departments of Government." This language is as explicit as any that is contained in that admirable document, and shows that the President appreciates, more than his pretended admirers, the importance of complete harmony in his administration. What can we imagine to have called forth that remark, unless it was the continual attacks that were made by a certain faction on several members of his cabinet? In desiring the confidence of his Ministers, he gives evidence of his confidence in them.—He expresses himself satisfied with the labors of Mr. Seward in the State Department, of Mr. Stanton in the War office, and with the general management of national affairs. How could he consistently speak otherwise? Had he found cause for dissatisfaction on coming into the Presidential chair, his first step should have been to eradicate the discordant elements, and as he has taken no action of this kind there are no grounds for supposing any discord to exist, but we may rather infer that the President considers his cabinet and himself a unit on the great questions with which they have to deal. Yet in the face of these facts a clamorous party praises the policy of the President and derides the opinions of his advisers. We have had numerous instances of the facility with which Mr. Johnson gives "gentle hints," and we have seen the readiness with which the South complied with them; now let the Northern wing of the faction show that they are equally willing to take advantage of the President's hints.

[No. VIII.] COMMONPLACE.

THE FENIANS.—The Fenian order in this country has got into a pretty difficulty. It has two Presidents, one O'Mahony and one Roberts, and while one portion of the members of the order cling to the former the other portion as tenaciously cling to the other as their ruler. Each wing denounces the other as untrue, unfaithful and disloyal. Ireland, for whose redemption the order was established, will lose its faith in the sincerity of its trans-Atlantic friends; while England, against whose dominion and power the order was designed to operate, will be benefitted by the disclosures made. We apprehend the full force of the scriptural truth will be revealed in the case of the Fenians—that a house divided against itself cannot stand.

SOLDIERS, DON'T SELL YOUR DISCHARGES.—It has been known for some time that a sort of traffic in soldier's discharges was going on in various parts of the country, which appeared on its face to be entirely unprofitable, but which was so odd and incomprehensible, that it seemed as though it must necessarily be, at least, a cover for some kind of fraud. A day or two since, Captain Lacey, formerly of an Ohio regiment, and now in the Sixth Auditor's Office, at Washington, received from an old comrade a letter, stating that brokers in Ohio were buying soldiers' discharge papers at prices varying from one to six hundred dollars, and he requested the Captain to inform him what could be the possible object. The Captain very sensibly referred the letter to General Baker for information, and the latter immediately replied, giving his version of the object to the transaction. He may be mistaken, but we can see no other solution of the problem.

General Baker says: 1st. I know of no legitimate demand for soldiers' discharges.—2d. The sale or transfer of a soldiers' discharge cannot carry with it any emoluments or profits; such, if any, can only be claimed by its legitimate possessor; hence it is entirely useless to the purchaser until Congress passes some law making valid such purchase and sale. If soldiers' discharges are being bought and sold, the purchasers doubtless anticipate that Congress will pass a law entitling the purchaser or possessor of a soldiers' discharge to all the benefits to which a soldier himself would be entitled. Such a law would doubtless legalize the traffic. I would, however, advise all soldiers to retain their discharges, and not barter away those honorable records, which should be preserved as monuments of their past heroic deeds. The scheme has probably been concocted and devised by some association or combination of speculators, who, if they can purchase a sufficient number to make it an object, will attempt to lobby through Congress, during the present session, some bill that may accrue to their pecuniary advantage." "Forewarned is forearmed," and Congress will doubtless watch the first indication of any such scheme very closely. In the meantime, let all soldiers follow the excellent advice given above.

☞ The first Sunday in January next has been named by the Centenary Committee for observance by the Methodists of this country, as a day of special and united prayer for the Divine blessings upon the centenary services of the year, and for a general revival of religion, that the centenarian year may prove to be an epoch in the spiritual progress of the church.

Payment of Commutation Does not empt from Bounty Tax.—An important case, and one in which the public in general are interested to a considerable extent, was disposed of in the District Court on Saturday last. It was presented in the form of a stated case in which the School Directors of Plum Township were plaintiffs, and John Ewer was defendant. The facts of the case are as follows: John Ewer, a citizen of said township, was drafted in July, 1863, under the act of Congress, paid the $300 commutation and was discharged from further liability. In 1864, a Bounty tax, under the provisions of the Bounty act of Pennsylvania, was assessed and levited on him, amounting to $55, by the School Directors of said township, which he refused to pay, claiming that he was exempt under the exceptions in said Bounty act, and hence this stated case. The point of law submitted to the Court for its decision was, whether he, having paid the commutation in 1863, was liable to pay a bounty tax under the provisions of said act.

Messrs. Moffitt and Cochran appeared for the School Directors, and B. G. Childs, Esq., for the defendant. After hearing the arguments of the counsel, the Court decided that the payment of commutation did not bring the defendant within the exceptions contained in the 4th section of said act, therefore he was liable to pay said tax, and ordered judgment to be entered in favor of the plaintiffs for $55, the amount of tax so assessed and levited on him, as a citizen of said township.—Pittsburgh Gazette.

MILLER'S Patent BROOM HEAD

THIS is a very useful invention about to be introduced to our housewives by which they are able to make their own corn brooms. It is a slight metallic frame which opens and closes by a clasp and contains a socket for a wood en handle. All the is required is to cut and straighten the corn and insert it in the frame, and a handsome as well as a strong broom is secured. Canvassers will visit our farmers to introduce the article. C. H. STRUBLE is the agent for the counties of Blair and Huntingdon. We have seen a Broom manufactured in this manner and believe it will please the people. dec20-3t*

PROCLAMATION.—WHEREAS, by a precept to me directed, dated at Huntingdon, the 15th of November, A. D. 1865, under the hands and seal of the Hon. George Taylor, President of the Court of Common Pleas, Oyer and Terminer, and general jail delivery of the 24th Judicial District of Pennsylvania, composed of Huntingdon, Blair and Cambria counties; and the Hons. Benj. F. Patton and Anthony J. Beaver, his associates, Judges of the county of Huntingdon, justices assigned, appointed to hear, try and determine all and every indictments made or taken for or concerning all crimes, which by the laws of the State are made capital, or felonies of death, and other offences, crimes and misdemeanors, which have been or shall hereafter be committed or perpetrated, for crimes aforesaid—I am commanded to make public proclamation throughout my whole bailiwick, that a Court of Oyer and Terminer, of Common Pleas and Quarter Sessions, will be held at the Court House in the borough of Huntingdon, on the second Monday (and 8th day) of January next, and those who will prosecute the said prisoners, be then and there to prosecute them as it shall be just, and that all Justices of the Peace, Coroner and Constables within said county, be then and there in their proper persons, at 10 o'clock, a. m. of said day, with their records, inquisitions, examinations and remembrances, to do those things which to their offices respectively appertain.

Dated at Huntingdon, the 12th December in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and the 89th year of American Independence.

JAS. F. BATHURST, Sheriff.

PROCLAMATION.—WHEREAS, by a precept to me directed by the Judges of the Common Pleas of the county of Huntingdon, bearing test the 13th of November, A. D. 1865, I am commanded to make public Proclamation throughout my whole bailiwick, that a Court of Common Pleas will be held at the Court House in the borough of Huntingdon, on the 3rd Monday (and 15th day) of January, A. D., 1866, for the trial of all issues in said Court which remain undetermined before the said Judges, when and where all jurors, witnesses, and suitors, in the trials of all issues are required.

Dated at Huntingdon, the 12th December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and the 89th year of American Independence.

NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE.

It is the foremost Magazine of the day. The fireside never had a more delightful companion, nor the million a more enterprising friend, than Harper's Magazine.—Methodist Protestant (Baltimore.)

The most popular Monthly in the world.—New York Observer.

We must refer in terms of eulogy to the high tone and varied excellences of Harper's Magazine—a journal with a monthly circulation of about 170,000 copies—in whose pages are to be found some of the choicest light and general reading of the day. We speak of this work as an evidence of the American People; and the popularity it has acquired is merited. Each number contains fully 144 pages of reading matter, appropriately illustrated with good wood cuts; and it combines in itself the very month-ly and the more philosophical quarterly, blended with the best features of the daily journal. It has great power in the dissemination of a love of pure literature.—Trubner's Guide to American Literature. (London.)

The volume bound constitute of themselves a library of miscellaneous reading such as can not be found in the same compass in any other publication that has come under our notice.—Boston Courier.

INK. INK. INK!

NOTICE

To Merchants and Business Men.

THE undersigned having recently been appointed agent for the New York National Ink Company, hereby gives notice to merchants, business men, and to consumers of all classes that he is prepared to supply the market with an article of Ink which in addition to being the best in use, is emphatically the cheapest ever offered for sale in this country.

It neither corrodes the pen, nor moulds the inkstand, is of a rich bluish tint, flows freely, and is perfectly indelible, giving it advantages not possessed by any other Ink, whether of foreign or domestic manufacture. This Ink contains no sediment and will not harden, thicken as most inks do, the last drop being as thin and clear as the first.

☞ All orders whether wholesale or retail, will be promptly filled, at lower rates than as good an article can be purchased in the cities or elsewhere. Persons who entertain doubts as to the superiority and cheapness of this Ink are respectfully entreated to give it a trial John H. Clark, sub-agent will canvass the county for the purpose of introducing this Ink.

LOCAL & PERSONAL.

To Subscribers.

Those subscribers receiving a paper marked with a † before the name will understand that the time for which they subscribed is up. If they wish the paper continued they will renew their subscription through the mail or otherwise. tf.

A few days Play.

Our hands want a few days rest during the Holidays, therefore we shall issue but a half sheet next week, containing advertisements which must be published, and others.

☞ Mr. John Flenner has entered upon his duties as Director of the Poor. Mr. Henry A. Mark, the officer who retires, served faithfully and well.

☞ The work of decorating the St. John's Episcopal Church in this place, for the holidays, has commenced.—There will be services in this church on Christmas evening.

☞ The M. E. Church at Orbisonia was destroyed by fire on the night of the 15th. Supposed to have caught from the pipe of a stove in the school room in the basement.

☞ The "Monitor" has again changed editors. Mr. J. S. Cornman of Carlisle, has taken charge of it. As he made a false charge against us in his first number, we shall wait to see what we shall see.

☞ A barn belonging to Mr. James Duff, near Saulsburg, in the upper end of this county, was, as is supposed, set on fire one night last week, and about two tons of hay and a fanning mill consumed.

☞ Squire Daniel Africa, the oldest native born citizen of this place, (age 72 years,) died, after a few days illness, on Wednesday evening last, about eight o'clock, from the effects of a paralytic stroke.

Pork and Beef.

A few weeks ago, from all we could learn, we came to the conclusion that pork and beef would be scarce this winter. Now there appears to be an abundance, and at fair prices. Beef and pork have been offered here at 12 cents per pound.

☞ Our country friends must not hold us responsible for changes in the price of country produce from the market prices as published weekly. "Huntingdon Market" prices as published weekly in the Globe are corrected weekly by Henry & Co.

☞ A friend informed us on Monday of a "phunny" dream he had the night previous. He dreamed that we left with him a slip of paper upon which was written "remember your county printer." Our devil must have been travelling around in his sleep stirring up the spirits.

☞ "Phinegan's" document, according to promise, is laid before our readers this week. It will be found on the first page, and we commend all who want a laugh to read it. The subject as chosen or treated upon is as creditable as A. Ward's or Nasby's—"Phinegan," don't neglect us.

☞ The following notice has been circulated by the Broad Top Railroad Co.: On the arrival of Accommodation train from Huntingdon, at Saxton, a passenger train will leave for Dudley, on Wednesday and Saturday evenings of each week, commencing December 16th. No passes will be recognized on this train.

Drowned.

On Sunday last a little son of Mr. James Garrett, of Portstown, aged about two years, fell into the canal that runs through that place and was drowned. The little child was missed early in the afternoon, and was found about midnight near the Broad Top bridge. It had fallen into an air-hole in the ice.

☞ Our readers will find some items of peculiar interest in the communication from A. L. Guss, Principal of the Cassville Orphans' School. Residents of towns that desire to spend a pleasant evening have the privilege of calling upon Mr. Guss and his band of scholars, who, if permitted and terms agreed to, will accommodate them.

☞ We learn that the splendid frame residence, recently finished, of Supt. J. J. Lawrence, at Renovo, Clinton county, was entirely destroyed by fire, week before last. It originated by heat communicated from the heaters to some combustible material. This was the best private dwelling house in that place, having been fitted up in the most convenient style, and well furnished.

☞ In the trials at Ebensburgh week, John Gore who was indicted for killing Edward Homes, a policeman of the borough of Johnstown, was convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to 14 years in the Penitentary. John B. Howser and Daniel Buser, indicted for the murder of Misses Paul and Munday, in Croyle township, in June last, are found guilty of murder in the first degree, and have been sentenced to be hanged.

Supposed Suicide.

On Wednesday morning last a man was found with his throat cut, in the haymow of the stable belonging to Mr. Rupert, in Walker township, about one mile above this place, near the Huntingdon & Broad Top R. R. He was cut directly above the Adam's apple, with a knife, which was found concealed under the hay, and the gash made was about three inches in width and the same in depth. It is not known positively whether the man committed suicide, or whether he was murdered, but the impression is prevalent that it was suicide. Since the murder the following facts have been elicited. On the night previous he, in company with another man, slept at Jacob's hotel in this place, and before retiring he had been engaged in conversation with his friend on the subject of Fenianism. His companion opposed the order, while he favored the same, and it is supposed he was a Fenian Upon this subject they discoursed so freely that finally passion took possession of the companion's judgment, and he concluded by saying that he would pay the landlord's bill, and after that they would separate. They accordingly separated the next morning, and the Fenian took up his abode at Dean's hotel, but it is not known what became of his companion. The supposed Fenian took his dinner at Dean's, and it is said was seen in town between two and three o'clock. After that nothing is known of him until the next morning, when he was found murdered as above described. A post mortem examination was had, but no other wounds were inflicted than the one in the throat. It was thought that he had been sleeping, and being struck he clutched his throat with his hands and fell forwards into the hay; thus making two pools of blood—where he had been lying and where he had fell. His clothes were searched and a few pennies found in his vest. He had been seen with a discharge paper on on Monday night which bore the name of Patrick O'Brien, which was supposed to be his. He was about forty years of age, about five feet and a half in height, had dark hair and black whiskers, had his left thumb bent, and was decently dressed. He had informed Mr. Jacobs that he had relatives in Broad Top, and it is supposed he was traveling home on foot, and gone into Rupert's stable for shelter during the night, and getting out of heart he killed himself to end his misery.

Disgraceful Conduct.

The auction sales of Government clothing, etc., etc., on Saturday last brought quite a crowd of old and young men to town, and the day being pretty cold, a number of the young men of town and from the country "warmed up," and it was not long until loud talking became pretty general and knock downs followed. After the first or most marked fight up town, in which a town "boy" came off second best, there appeared to be a bad feeling with the "crowd" towards the young men from the country. During the afternoon up to about four o'clock there was considerable skirmishing on and in the neighborhood of Railroad street, when a general charge was made at Cunningham & Etnier's corner, and for some minutes the fight was rough—the town "boys" using "billies" and stones, and drawing blood profusely from the heads of three young men from Juniata township. Stones were also thrown by one or two of the Juniata boys. By the time we arrived on the ground the fight was about closed, but we saw and heard enough to satisfy us that several of the young men of town who were prominent in the fight behaved very cowardly in using "billies." We do not know who commenced the last fight but we do know that the "billy boys" were spoiling for a fight, and they were prepared to put it through on the rough. They may become perfect in the use of the "billy," if they are allowed to "do pretty much as they please" much longer; then they may be called upon to visit Pittsburg, or some other locality where fast young men have time to reflect.

We advise the "lively" young men of the country when they come to town to keep out of bad company, as there is no certainty of fair play if, by "double-teaming," a victory over them can be made more certain. This advice we give free of charge, in hopes it will be heeded, that our Doctors may be saved from the trouble of bandaging up cut heads, and the Coroner, perhaps, from holding an inquest.

Important to Musicians.

The following testimony from a lady who purchased a Steinway's Piano from B. M. Greene, agent for this county, shows not only that she appreciates a good instrument, but is additional testimony to the superiority of their make of Pianos over ALL others. She says:—"For purity and sweetness of tone, elasticity of touch, and beauty of instrument, together with all the modern improvements, I find it unequalled." "I cheerfully recommend Messrs Steinway & Sons pianos to any who wish to purchase."

Send for a circular.

☞ We learn that a boy named Fulton was instantly killed in attempting to jump on a train at Saxton, one day last week. His head was crushed, his arm broken, and he was otherwise injured.

Reasons Why

The American Monthly Agriculturist is taken by more than a hundred thousand subscribers: It is for the whole Family—for the Farm, and Garden, the Orchard, and also for the Household, including the Children and Youth; indeed, tens of thousands of copies are taken in our cities and villages for the Household and Youth's Department alone, while its other departments are valuable to every one cultivating a foot of land.—It is most beautifully printed and illustrated with Hundreds of Fine Engravings every year. These are both pleasing and instructive; the Agriculturist may well be styled a Rural and Household Illustrated Magazine. It is an ornament to the table of any family.—It is not a loosely thrown together "Scissors and Paste" Journal, but the largest possible amount of information is condensed into every page. Every line is carefully prepared by thoroughly intelligent, practical men of long experience and large observation—by men of sound common sense, who know what they write and talk about. The information they give, with the thousands of hints and suggestions, cannot fail to be worth to every reader, far more than the subsciption price, which is very low, owing to the large circulation.—In short, the American Agriculturist is full of good, reliable, interesting, and instructive articles and items, and is adapted to all parts of the country, and to every man, woman and child in the land. We advise every family to subscribe at the present time, and receive the 25th Annual Volume, now beginning.

TERMS.—$1.50 a year; Four copies for $5; Ten for $12; Twenty or more copies, $1 each. An extra copy to the one making up a club of Ten or Twenty. ☞ Volume XXV begins with the next number. Published by ORANGE JUDD & Co., 41 Park Row, New York.

Bring in your Work.

Now is the time for merchants and all classes of business men to clean up, square up, rearrange and prepare for a new campaign. Look around, and see if you don't need some letter heads, bill heads, envelopes, circulars, cards, or something else, printed to scatter freely to the four winds, to call attention to the fact of your existence, and that you still wave and flourish. Bring on your work; we are prepared to do any amount of printing, and will cheerfully aid you in any way that we are able in order to assist in your success. Call and see us; we are always "at home," and are prepared to do job work of all kinds in a style equal to that of any other office in the State.

☞ The Phrenological Journal for December,—completes Vol. 42d—contains Lord Palmerston, Napoleon III., Washington, Cæsar, Hon. D. S. Dickinson, Blind Tom, with Portraits, Characters and Biographies. Also "Work for Women," a new History of Civilization; Destiny of America; Beauty, Vigor, and Development; Symmtery of Character; Phrenology in the Pulpit; Animal Types of Human Physiognomy; Gymnastics for men, women, and children; including Ethnology, Physiology, Phrenology, Physiognomy and Psychology—only 20 cents, or $2.00 a year. New volume begins with Jan. No. Address FOWLER & WELLS, 389 BROADWAY, New York.

To Soldiers.

All commissioned officers of Huntingdon county, who were honorably discharged, are respectfully requested to meet at the Franklin House, Huntingdon, Pa., on Saturday, the 30th of December, inst., for the purpose of concerting measures for the organization of an association of soldiers of the late war.

W. F. JOHNSTON,
Late Major 192d P. V. Inf'y.

Late Major 9th P. V. Cav.
G. F. M'CABE,
Late Major 13th P. V. Cav.
Huntingdon, December 18, 1865.

Important to Soldiers.

A meeting of the soldiers who entered the service in 1861–2, will be held at the Court House in Huntingdon, on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 23d, at 1½ o'clock, for the purpose of selecting delegates to represent them in the National Convention, to be held in Philadelphia on the 1st day of January 1866. The object of the Convention is to memoralize Congress to equalize the bounty. A full attendance is greatly desired and expected.

MANY SOLDIERS.

Notice.

J. B. Shontz & Bro., Marklesburg, dealers in Ready Made Clothing, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c., have just opened a large and well selected stock of Overcoats. Also, Toys—just such funny and fancy things as everybody wants for Christmas presents for the "young uns." Their prices in clothing have come down twenty five per cent. and they now defy competition, far or near. In proof of the above, call and see for yourselves. *

Holiday Presents.

If you want a handsome and useful present call at Lewis' Book Store. Bibles, Hymn Books, Albums, Pocket Books, Books in great variety for all ages, particularly the young; fine Knives, and a great variety of articles too numerous to mention.

What Became of It?

MR. EDITOR:—I see in your last issue a very anxious and significant inquiry concerning the Soldiers' Orphans' School, said to have been lately established at Cassville, Huntingdon Co., Pa. It appears that you are somewhat in the dark, as to whether said orphan school has fizzled out, or is still in full blast. I would say, therefore, that the best way to believe your own mind, and also to prepare your editorial pen to enlighten your readers, would be for you to take a trip some day over to Cassville and see for yourself. They say, "seeing is believing," and we wish everybody, that feels any interest in the poor fatherless children of those who gave their lives for the life of the Republic, to come and see for themselves. But for fear you do not come soon, I will venture to say, through the columns of your excellent paper, that "the Orphan School said to have been established" here has already become a full grown institution. Although we have only been in operation one month, we have now 108 orphans, ranging from 8 to 16 years of age. Their fathers perished on many different battlefields, in many hospitals and Southern prisons. We have Huntingdon, Blair, Bedford, Centre, Cambria, Clearfield and Franklin counties represented. And I would say that although they are poor, they represent as good a stock of families as can be found in those counties. Some of them may yet astonish the world—and I am not sure but that I may have a future President of the United (thank God for the word United) States. Our boys can do a little drilling and the girls can sing a little—they are of course young and have just commenced, yet when we remember who and what they are, they are worth one's while to come to see and hear. We are in a quiet, out of the way place, but all the better for that—still we do not wish to be forgotten or have our claims overlooked. Perhaps your inquiry was intended to draw me out and wake up the dormant pen with which I formerly drove the Juniata Sentinel. If so, I would say that if I thought it would be acceptible, I would scribble a few articles for all of our county papers. I say our papers for I consider myself now a Huntingdon county institution. I know one thing—that the people need more knowledge in regard to the nature and design of these orphans' schools. Some people hereabouts, for instance, ask me two prices for everything, because they say "Government pays for it"—whereas the facts are, I am allowed only so much per year for boarding, lodging, teaching, &c., &c. One thought more, Mr. Editor, and I have done: If you people in Huntingdon can not come over to see us, you might invite us over to see you about the Holidays. If Dr. Thos. H. Burrowes, State Superintendent, will give his permission, and the farmers and others who have teams about this town will agree to haul us all over to your town some day, and you will get us the Court House and keep us all over night free, we will be pleased to visit your ancient borough, entertain you as well as we can, and have a happy time generally. I got up an affair of this kind last summer, when I had no more interest in it than you have at present.

In conclusion let me say when we brought up 44 orphans from the Mc Alistersville school, the other day, the citizens of Mapleton, through the suggestions of a thoughtful man, calling himself, Wm. H. Rex, gave us all a free dinner, as we halted there on our way. Blessed be the people of Mapleton and the editors of the Globe or anybody else that doeth likewise. Come and see us.

Yours truly,
A. L. GUSS,
Principal,
Cassville, Pa., Dec. 11. 1865.

More about Broad Top City.

As we wrote you some time since in regard to the (Baptist) revival in this place, we can now say it has closed. And the cry is, when are the converts to be dipped or rather (immersed). Guess they think it will be a cold bath this season of the year, but as their faith is, so be it unto them.

We are pleased to know that the public schools of Carbon district are progressing finely this winter. Although they are crowded almost to an overflowing, yet competent teachers have been employed and they are meeting with great success, some of the schools being so large that assistant teachers have been employed. We were told a few days since by the teacher that the City school was averaging seventy-two scholars per day—we know that our township is looked upon as being nothing but a coal region, yet education is finding its way out, May it long continue.

We need not tell your many readers where Broad Top City is, for truly it is known to all. And we need only say it is the best market this side of Philadelphia. As our Eagle Foundry correspondent, in writing a few days since thus speaks of the wealth and activity of the people of the little valley, called Trough Creek valley, it being one of the outlets of Broad Top City, having free access to market, and all its advantages. We will adopt Jeff's language, and say done and gone for this time. XENIA.

The Soldiers' Meeting.

It is to be hoped that the call recently made through the Globe and other county papers, for a meeting, on Saturday the 23d inst., of the soldiers who enlisted in '61 and '62, will be heartily responded to. A general movement is in progress to have the same reward given to those who entered the service at an early period of the war as was received by those who went at a later day. Huntingdon county should act in concert with the rest of the country, on the subject of equalizing the bounties. By reference to the proceedings of Congress on the 12th inst. it will be seen that Mr. Cowan introduced it in the Senate, and that Mr. Hubbard, of Iowa, brought it before the House. It was referred by both branches to the committees on Military Affairs, and at no distant day it will no doubt come up for consideration. In order to hasten the action and to make the desired result more certain, it is of importance that the wishes of the people be laid before Congress. Although we might infer from the purport of the call that soldiers alone are to assemble, I think it would be well to extend the invitation to all the friends of soldiers. The older members of the community who were so influential in filling up the companies raised in this county, may now be of assistance in bringing justice to the doors of the men who were first and foremost in joining the ranks.

[No. VIII.] COMMONPLACE.

☞ Now wanes the year apace—its days of beauty and joy are gone forever. The days of cloud and storm have come. The farmer's out door labors are almost past, and the care of his stock will now constitute his principal employment for the winter. The business man now scans over his accounts, balances his books, and ascertains his gains or loss.

Now let the dear family circle draw close around the hearthstone. Close the shutters to exclude the storm. Close the ear to the word of detraction. Let peace, harmony and love prevail; and while some pursue the avocations of the household, let one be appointed to read aloud some useful book or paper. So shall the hour pass happily away—so shall the thoughtless and erring son be saved from spending his evenings in the streets, or in company with those whose ways lead down to the gates of death and everlasting ruin.

The New Town.

West Huntingdon is beginning to look up. Lots are being fenced in and preparations making for the erection of a number of new dwellings in the spring. Huntingdon is the best location on the Pennsylvania Railroad for a smart town.

Christmas Present.

No more appropriate present for Christmas can pass between friends, and none that would be more highly prized than a Photograph Family Record, which can be had from Capt. A. S. Harrison, of this place, Agent.

MARRIED,

On Wednesday, 13th inst., at the Exchange Hotel, in Huntingdon, by Rev. S. H. Reid, Mr. D. W. COGAN, to Miss KATE KNODE, all of Birmingham.

And so our friend Westly has actually "done, gone and did it;" or in other words he has at last emerged from a state of single cursedness, to a state of double blessedness. Or to change the figure, he has, as some unpoetical scamp expresses it, launched his trim built craft upon a sea subject to many changes of wind and weather, alternating in calms, storms and squalls. Old navigators of this sea care nothing for the first two, but they have a mortal horror of the last. Westly, beware of squalls! FENIX.

At the residence of the bride's father, Juniata township, on Thursday, 14th inst., by the same, Mr. HARRISON SWOOPE, to Miss CATHARINE, eldest daughter of Isaac Heiffner.

Our happy friends, in the midst of their bliss, have not forgotten the printer. They have our best wishes for a life of peace, joy and prosperity. "In union there is strength;" may the happy couple live to find it so.

At the residence of the bride's father, Dec. 14, by Rev. D. A. Isenberg, D. P. HAWKER to Miss CYNTHIA BOWERSOX, all of Shirleysburg, Huntingdon county, Pa.

DANIEL AFRICA, Esq.—Born at Huntingdon, (on the lot where he died) March 19th., 1794, died Dec. 13th., '65, in his 72d year.

Commissioned as County Surveyor on the 7th of June, 1824, and held the office by this and a subsequent appointment for six years. Commissioned as Justice of the Peace by Gov. Shulze, on the 6th of February, 1828, and held the office by appointment and election for 22 years. It is believed that he was the oldest native born citizen of the borough.

DIED,

In Tod township, on Saturday, Dec. 2d., MARY, wife of Henry Elias, aged 81 years, 8 months and 20 days. The deceased was a consistent member of the Methodist Church for upwards of 60 years.

December 6, 1865, in Granville Township, Mifflin County, Pa., ELTA CATHARINE, youngest child of Ephram and Fannie C. Myers; aged 2 months and 7 days.

This is the third bereavement, by death, in the same family within a fortnight.

Oil.

We copy from the Reno Times of Nov. 30, the following paragraph in relation to what is known here as the D. W. Woods oil well:

"On Porter Island, situated four miles from Franklin, the Porter Island Oil Co., of Huntingdon, Pa., Wm. Fields, Supt., have one well 321 feet in depth. Oil was struck August 1st, 1865, the average yield being 20 barrels. The company are sinking a new well at the head of the Island."

The Young Folks

Are beginning to think of the Holidays, and the old folks are made to think. A variety of handsome and useful articles can be had at Lewis' Book Store, suitable for presents for old and young. A good book should always be the first article selected.

☞ We clip the following from one of the Philadelphia daily papers.—Our people visiting or sending down to the city, would do well to make a note of it:

WANAMAKER & BROWN'S FINE CLOTHING.—This establishment, located at the corner of Sixth and Market street, Philada., familiarly known as "Oak Hall," is probably the largest and best conducted Ready Made Clothing and Merchant Tailoring House, in the State. Their superior styles, excellent workmanship and moderation in prices have made their house deservedly popular.

In their Custom Department, where elegant garments are made to order, none but the very best artists are employed, and the fine assortment of materials to select from enables every one to be well suited.

Samples will be sent by mail, and instructions for measuring, when written for. no8–2m

FRUIT TREES,
ORNAMENTAL TREES,
SHADE TREES,
GRAPE VINES,
PLANTS, &C.,

At the nurseries of Taylor & Cremer

Who offer their stock of well grown and thrifty TREES, VINES, PLANTS, &c., at their old prices. The expense of grafting and planting this stock having been incurred before the outbreak of the rebellion when the price of labor was low, they can afford to sell these Trees at 50 per cent. less than they can sell the same kind of trees next year. While other Nurserymen have raised their prices about 50 per cent., these still sell at the old rates this year; that is to say—Apple Trees, $15. $18, and $20 per hundred, according to size, &c. Standard Pear 50 to 75 cents each. Dwarf Pear, 50 to 75 cents each, and $20 to $45 per hundred. Plum and Apricot, at 40 to 50 cents each. Also, Perch, Cherry, Quince and other trees; Grape Vines, Lawton Blackberry, Raspberry, and Strawberry plants, Dahlia roots, and Shade and Ornamental Trees—all at the old rates.

Money invested in fruit trees is sure to yield a good return. Now is your time to order trees.

Pollock's Philadelphia Mercantile College.

ESTABLISHED IN 1840.

Located on the N. W. Corner of 7th and Chestnut sts. (701) (701)

Designed exclusively to impart a thorough and

PRACTICAL BUSINESS EDUCATION.

All classes of persons require such an education. Those possessing means, need it in conducting their own business. Those without means need it in obtaining and creditably filling lucrative positions in the employ of others.

The course of instruction and practice is arranged so as to fully meet the diversified wants of every department of

as comprehended or embraced under the three general divisions of industry: Agriculture, Manufacture and Commerce.

Each student is instructed individually in both theory and practice of Book Keeping, according to the most approved and labor saving methods. Business Penmanship, Calculations, and all the collateral branches of a complete course of business education; and upon passing a satisfactory examination is awarded, by authority of law, a diploma, under the corporate seal of the college.

Students are received at any time. And it is believed that a practical experience of over TWENTY YEARS will be considered by the public an ample guarantee of the practical character of the course and efficiency of the instruction.

☞ A liberal discount is allowed to wounded and honorably discharged soldiers. The college is open day and evening.

Electricity.

DR. BREWSTER HAS OPENED an office in Huntingdon, Pa., and has cured, and further pledges himself to cure a class of diseases acknowledged to be incurable by any known process of medication, diseases that never have, nor never can be controlled, only by his mode of applying the various modifications of Electricity.

The Doctor does not wish to convey the impression that he cures all diseases in all conditions; he does not wish to shock the sense of the public by asserting that he can cure pulmonary consumption after the lungs are half decayed, but he pledges himself to cure every case of pulmonary consumption in the early and middle stage, and every other disease where a sufficient amount of vitality remains for reaction.

Electricity is always safe in the hands of an experienced operator. The currents are perfectly under control, and can be regulated to suit the delicate nerves of a child without any unpleasant sensation.

☞ All those who have long suffered from painful and obstinate diseases!

☞ All those who have been given up by other Physicians!

☞ All those who have been dismissed as incurable from hospitals!

ARE INVITED TO CALL.

Electricity, unlike Medicine, is capable of producing all the changes necessary to cure any disease, when applied from proper polarities. The following are among the diseases our system of practice has proved especially successful in curing.

Diseases Cured by Electropathy.

Amaurosis; Aphony, loss of voice, &c.; Asthma; Ague Chills, fever and ague; Atrophy; nervous consumption; Atony of the stomach, Amenorrhœa, suppressed menses; All mercurial diseases; Bites of poisonous insects or animals; Bronchitis; stone or gravel in Bladder; Consumption; Chlorosis, green sickness; Concussion of brain; Contraction of chest; stricture of limbs, Cholic, from different causes; Cramps or spasms, chronic or acute; Congestive diseases of all kinds, Cores; St. Vitus dance; Coldness of feet and hands; Cancers, in certain stages; Copper colored cuticle, or blotches; Catarrh; Diptheria; Deformed limbs straitened, Deafness, from paralysis of accoustic nerve; Dizziness or drowsiness; Dropsy; Diabetes; Dyspepsia, in all its forms; Dismenorrhœa; painful menstruation; Difficult respiration; Enlargement of joints; Earache; Epilepsy, falling sickness; Fits, from different causes; Gastrition, irritation of the stomach; Gout; Goitre or swelled neck; Glandular swellings; Hemiplegia; Hemorrhage, from different causes; Hysteria, irritable spine, &c.; sick or nervous Headache; Insanity; Inflamed or sore eyes; Incontinence of urine; torpid state of Liver; Lumbago, hemorrhage of, congestion of, &c.; Lockjaw; Liver enlargement of; Leuchorrhœa; flour albus; whites; Mental depression; Muscular contraction; Menstruation, derangement in; Monomania; Milklegs; Numbness, from injuries or otherwise; Neuralgia; Nocturnal emissions; Old sores, Indolent ulcers; Ozena, in some of its forms; Paraplegia; Palsy, numb or shaking, Paralysis, in whatever part; Poisoning; Palpitation of the heart; Prostration from various causes; Prolapsus uteri, &c., Prolapsus ani, or piles; excessive Perspiration; suspended Perspiration; Pulmonary apoplexy; Rush of Blood to the head; Rheumatism, acute or chronic; Restlessness; Swelled Tonsils; Sore Throat, from any cause; Salt rheum; Scrotula; Spinal diseases, curvature, &c.; Ovarian Tumors; &c.; Tremens, do. Ilrium, or at death, Tetanus, or lockjaw, Uterine misplacements, Uterine weakness; Weak Eyes, &c.; White swellings. WM. BREWSTER, M. D.,

DR. VENARD'S

STAR MAGIC LINIMENT.

$1000 REWARD will be paid for any medicine that excels this for the following diseases:

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Spinal Affections, Contracted Joints, Cholic Pains, Pains in Side or Back, Toothache, Headache, Sprains, Sore Throat, Cuts, Bruises, Burns, and all Diseases of the Muscles, Skin and Glands.

This is an Internal and External Medicine, composed of Roots, Herbs and Barks such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on the earth to cure all complaints, if we only knew what they were. This has been a subject for constant study with the Medical Faculty for a great many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what portions to use.

This wonderful remedy needs no recommendation save the results which invariably follow its application.

☞ PHYSICIANS are invited to test its efficacy in all cases of Rheumatism. Affections of the Spinal Column, and all Diseases of the Skin, Muscles and Glands. It has been used in thousands of instances under the personal supervision of the Inventors, and has never disappointed their expectations. All we ask for it is a trial—experimental proof—not the testimony of the men of straw, are the vouchers we desire to present to the public.

It would be well for many now lying in beds of torture, if these facts could reach their sick chambers. It is more important to them than to the inventors that this should be the case. "Truth is mighty and must prevail."

☞ Keep it in your family, for sickness comes when you least expect it.
